The packaging is made of silver cardboard and 2mm hard paper, and the choice of this material not only reflects the delicacy and elegance of the packaging, but also conforms to the pursuit of high-quality lifestyle by modern consumers. Silver cardboard usually has good luster and texture, which can effectively enhance the visual effect of products and make skincare products more attractive when displayed. In addition, the use of 2mm hard paper increases the durability and protection of the packaging, ensuring the safety of the product during transportation and storage. The outer box is printed in bright CMYK, while the inner box is printed in silver. This color combination not only looks beautiful, but also highlights the high-end image of the product. CMYK printing technology can provide a wide range of color choices, while the use of silver adds a modern and technological feel, which is particularly important for attracting target consumer groups. This upper and lower box design is not only suitable for packaging skincare products, but can also be used as a gift box, increasing the added value of the product. Multifunctionality allows the product to not only be limited to daily use, but also serve as a gift to further expand its market scope.

The design equipped with a velvet tray not only looks beautiful, but also provides an additional protective layer to ensure the safety of the product during transportation. This is crucial for improving customer satisfaction and repeat purchase rates.

This cosmetic packaging fully considers market demand and environmental trends in its design. By using high-quality materials, exquisite printing technology, and innovative design concepts, it not only enhances the product's market competitiveness, but also meets the aesthetic and environmental awareness of modern consumers.
