Mylar Zipper Bag is a bag made of polyester film with a zipper seal.

This type of bag has many advantages. Firstly, polyester film itself has excellent mechanical strength and toughness, making the bag sturdy and durable, able to withstand certain stretching and squeezing without being easily damaged. Secondly, it has good transparency and can clearly display the items inside the bag. At the same time, it has a certain barrier performance against moisture, oxygen, etc., which helps to protect the quality of the items inside the bag.

In terms of usage, polyester film Mylar Zipper Bag are widely used in various fields. In the food industry, it can be used to package foods such as nuts, candies, and dry goods to maintain their freshness and hygiene; In the daily necessities industry, it can be used to store cosmetics, small accessories, etc; In the industrial field, it can be used for packaging small items such as components and electronic components. Its zipper design is easy to open and close, and can be reused, bringing convenience to users.

In addition, this type of bag can be personalized and printed with various patterns, logos, etc. according to different needs to meet the requirements of brand promotion and personalization. In summary, polyester film Mylar Zipper Bag have become a common and practical packaging material due to their excellent performance and wide applicability.

The sealing methods for polyester film Mylar Zipper Bag mainly include the following:

Zipper sealing: This is its main sealing method, which achieves the opening and closing of the bag opening by pulling the zipper. The operation is simple, convenient, and can be reused.

Heat sealing: It can be sealed by hot pressing at the edge of the bag opening, making it firmly closed and having good sealing performance.

Adhesive sealing: Using adhesive to seal the bag opening, this method is relatively simple, but may not be as secure as zipper sealing and heat sealing.

Ultrasonic sealing: Utilizing the energy of ultrasonic waves to fuse the materials of the bag opening together, forming a sealing effect that is good and aesthetically pleasing.
